

ABOUT POINT

POINT was established in 2015 in Turkey as a humanitarian organization by a group of Syrian diaspora humanitarian partitioners.

POINT is fully registered in Iraq, Turkey, and Syria as a humanitarian organization with its HQ based in Gaziantep-Turkey and several field country offices in Syria, and Iraq.

At POINT, we strongly believe that the most effective way to support individuals in crisis is through a rapid transformation from a quick response approach to a resilience method.

This shift is essential in humanitarian operations as it enables communities to recover, rebuild their capacities, and regain stability. Initially focusing on education and livelihood, this approach progresses to encompass early recovery and rehabilitation in later stages.

POINT collaborates closely with civilians such as IDPs, refugees, returnees, and host communities across various countries. We also actively engage with local initiatives, NGOs, and international organizations (INGOs). Additionally, POINT has established a comprehensive system to recruit the necessary experts, skills, and tools required to fulfill our mission in resilience and organizational development.

POINT VISION

To stabilize civil communities socially and economically.

POINT MISSION

To enhance knowledge, abilities, and skills, of affected civilians and local actors by providing them with fundamental means and creating opportunities for a greater role in community stabilization.
